

Frivolous Lawsuits In Connecticut

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

- “The definition of a frivolous appeal is set forth in the comment to Rule 3.1, wherein it is stated that “[t]he action is frivolous if the client desires to have the action taken primarily for the purpose of harassing or maliciously injuring a person or if the lawyer is unable either to make a good faith argument on the merits of the action taken or to support the action taken by a good faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law.” Texaco, Inc. v. Golart, 206 Conn. 454, 463-464, 538 A.2d 1017 (1988).
- Sham Pleading : “A sham pleading is one that is so bad in fact and so obviously false that it has no possible substance and could not conceivably result in a triable issue.” Municipal Serv. Co v. Town of Colonie, 12 A.D.2d 22, 23 [3d Dept 1960], 208 N.Y.S.2d 193.
- “A sham pleading is one incompatible with the law or the nature and condition of things within the judicial knowledge, or appearing to be false by comparison with other declarations of the pleadings. Flatt v. Norman, 91 Mont. 543, 549.” Tulin v. Johnson, 18 Conn. Sup. 395, 396 (1953).
- Summary Judgment Procedure : “Our Supreme Court has explained that “[t]he summary judgment procedure is designed to eliminate the delay and expense incident to a trial where there is no real issue to be tried. . . . It is an attempt to dispose of cases involving sham or frivolous issues in a manner which is speedier and less expensive for all concerned than a full-dress trial.” (Citations omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Mac's Car City, Inc. v. American National Bank, 205 Conn. 255, 261, 532 A.2d 1302 (1987).

SCOPE:

Bibliographic resources relating to frivolous lawsuits in Connecticut including Connecticut federal courts

DEFINITIONS:

- FRIVOLOUS APPEAL: “The definition of a frivolous appeal is set forth in the comment to Rule 3.1, wherein it is stated that “[t]he action is frivolous if the client desires to have the action taken primarily for the purpose of harassing or maliciously injuring a person or if the lawyer is unable either to make a good faith argument on the merits of the action taken or to support the action taken by a good faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law.” Texaco, Inc. v. Golart, 206 Conn. 454, 463-464, 538 A.2d 1017 (1988).
- TEST FOR FRIVOLOUS APPEAL: “We hereby adopt this test, and further hold that the burden of proof lies on the moving party to establish the frivolity of the appeal. On the present record, we find that the plaintiff has not met that burden of proof. As to the first prong, the plaintiff has not established facts tending to show that the defendants brought this appeal for the purpose of harassing or maliciously injuring the plaintiff. As to the second prong, we have concluded that the defendants’ arguments on appeal did have some merit, even though they did not warrant a reversal.” Ibid.
- RIGHT OF ACCESS TO THE COURTS: “Plaintiff’s blatant abuse of the judicial process can no longer continue unchecked. Plaintiff’s right of access to the court is not absolute or unconditional. Green v. Warden, 699 F.2d 364, 369 (7th Cir.1983), See also Green v. White, 616 F.2d 1054 (8th Cir.1980). This is particularly true where plaintiff has demonstrated a propensity for filing numerous meritless and vexatious lawsuits which clutter the docket of this court and put defendants to the time and expense of answering frivolous and frequently incomprehensible allegations. Henceforth, plaintiff will be required to seek leave from this court before filing a civil action in this district.” Brown v. Gibson, 571 F.Supp. 1075, 1076-1077 (1983).
- “In determining the propriety of a particular method used to restrict or condition the activities of a vexatious litigator, the principles of reasonableness, rationality, and access to courts apply interdependently to frame a single constitutional inquiry, which is whether the challenged procedure is properly tailored to prevent further abuse of court processes without unduly burdening the submission of legitimate claims.” Mayer v. Bristow, 740 N.E.2d 656 (Ohio 2000).

"A lawyer shall not bring or defend a proceeding, or assert or controvert an issue therein, unless there is a basis for doing so that is not frivolous, which includes a good faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law. . . ."
- Comment to Rule 3.1
"The filing of an action or defense or similar action taken for a client is not frivolous merely because the facts have not first been fully substantiated or because the lawyer expects to develop vital evidence only by discovery. Such action is not frivolous even though the lawyer believes that the client's position ultimately will not prevail. The action is frivolous, however, if the client desires to have the action taken primarily for the purpose of harassing or maliciously injuring a person or if the lawyer is unable either to make a good faith argument on the merits of the action taken or to support the action taken by a good faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law."

CASES:

- Costanzo v. Mulshine, 94 Conn. App. 655, 665 (2006). “Fifteen years ago, in Burns v. Bennett, 220 Conn. 162, 595 A.2d 877 (1991), our Supreme Court considered the purposes behind the statute permitting an award of attorney's fees to a prevailing plaintiff on a case transferred from small claims court by a defendant. The court stated: ‘Section 52-251a . . . creates a substantial and effective disincentive for a defendant who might otherwise raise defenses bordering on the frivolous in an effort to gain a tactical advantage over a plaintiff by obtaining a transfer of a case from the Small Claims division.’ Id.169. This court recently applied that interpretation to a case in affirming an award of attorney's fees that was ten times the amount in dispute. We stated that ‘[t]he very purpose of § 52-251a is to deter . . . defendants from transferring a case from the small claims session and turning a relatively clear-cut case into a pitched legal battle.’ Krack v. Action Motors Corp., supra, 87 Conn. App. [687,] 697[2005].”
- Town Bank & Trust Co. v. Benson, 176 Conn. 304, 307-308, 407 A.2d 971 (1978). “Summary judgment procedure, generally speaking, is an attempt to dispose of cases involving sham or frivolous issues in a manner which is speedier and less expensive for all concerned than a full-dress trial.”

Table 1 Frivolous actions

Frivolous Actions in Connecticut State and Federal
Appeal (State)	“Finally, we consider the plaintiff’s renewed motion for sanctions for a frivolous appeal, and its request for attorney’s fees incurred in defending the appeal. Deciding the motion as a matter of first impression, we find that the defendants’ appeal was not frivolous.” Texaco, Inc. v. Golart, 206 Conn. 454, 463, 538 A.2d 1017.
In forma pauperis actions (Federal)	“Under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B), ‘the court shall dismiss the case at any time if the court determines that ... the action ... is frivolous or malicious, ... fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted; or ... seeks monetary relief against a defendant who is immune from such relief.’ 28 U.S.C. §§ 1915(e)(2)(B)(i)-(iii). An action is ‘frivolous’ within the meaning of § 1915(e)(2)(B)(i) ‘when either: (1) the factual contentions are clearly baseless, such as when allegations are the product of delusion or fantasy; or (2) the claim is based on an indisputably meritless legal theory ... [i.e.,] either the claims lacks an arguable basis in law or a dispositive defense clearly exists on the face of the complaint.’” McCulley v. Chatigny, 390 F.Supp.2d 126, 129 (D. Conn. 2005).
Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 11	“In establishing the requisite element of lack of probable cause, reference must be made to the definition existing at the time of the enactment of § 1983. At that time, probable cause was defined as follows: Probable cause--or, as the expression oftener is, reasonable and probable cause--is any such combination of facts and proofs as may fairly lead the reasonable mind to the belief (and the person relying on it must believe) that, in the absence of hitherto unknown qualifying or rebutting evidence, the prosecution or other suit ought to be successful. . . . It is interesting to note that a more modern definition of probable cause to initiate civil proceedings incorporates similar elements: One who takes an active part in the initiation, continuation or procurement of civil proceedings against another has probable cause for doing so if he reasonably believes in the existence of the facts upon which the claim is based, and either (a) correctly or reasonably believes that under those facts the claim may be valid under the applicable law, or (b) believes to this effect in reliance upon the advice of counsel, sought in good faith and given after full disclosure of all relevant facts within his knowledge and information.” Pinsky v. Duncan, 79 F.3d 306,312 (2nd Cir. 1996).

Table 2 Costs in small claims

Costs in Small Claims Conn. Practice Book § 24-33
§ 24-33	The actual legal disbursements of the prevailing party for entry fee, witness' fees, execution fees, fees for copies, fees of an indifferent person, and officers' fees shall be allowed as costs. No other costs shall be allowed either party except by special order of the judicial authority. The judicial authority shall have power in its discretion to award costs, in a sum fixed by the judicial authority, not exceeding $100 (exclusive of such cash disbursements, or in addition thereto) against any party, whether the prevailing party or not, who has set up a frivolous or vexatious claim, defense or counterclaim , or has made an unfair, insufficient or misleading answer, or has negligently failed to be ready for trial, or has otherwise sought to hamper a party or the judicial authority in securing a speedy determination of the claim upon its merits, and it may render judgment and issue execution therefor, or set off such costs against damages or costs, as justice may require. In no case shall costs exceed the amount of the judgment. [Emphasis added].

Costs, Attorney's Fees on Small Claim Matters Transferred to Regular Docket
Conn. Gen. Stats § 52-251a (2005)	"Whenever the plaintiff prevails in a small claims matter which was transferred to the regular docket in the Superior Court on the motion of the defendant, the court may allow to the plaintiff his costs, together with reasonable attorney's fees to be taxed by the court."
